NAME: CHAUNCEY

AGE: UNKNOWN

HAIR: NONE

EYE COLOR: GREEN (SORT OF)

MOTHER: UNKNOWN

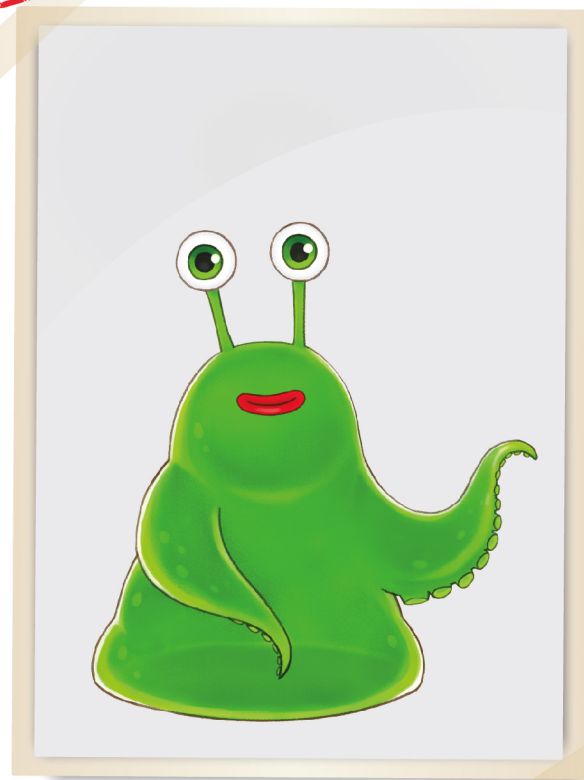

FATHER: UNKNOWN

SPECIES OF MAGICAL YOUTH: UNKNOWN

Not much is known about the child known as Chauncey, only that he is, in fact, a child. There has never been any other known species like him, and internally, he is known as the unidentifiable amorphous blob, which is an apt description. He does not have legs, and yet moves around with ease. Most of the time, his body is green and translucent. His lips are a furious shade of red, his mouth filled with black teeth. On either side of his body are tentacles, complete with a single row of suckers. His eyes are attached to the tops of foot-long stalks that rise from his head.

(Note: "head" is a general description, given the placement of his eyes and mouth. He does not have a nose.)

His origins are unknown. Being quite a fearful sight, it was believed initially that Chauncey was a monster bent on the destruction of humanity. However, once it was determined that he was a child (one who repeatedly asked if he could help with luggage, though no luggage was present), he went from being a monster to something pitiable. Whatever acts led to his creation were not sanctioned by the will of God. It is a cruel twist of fate that he remains the only one known of his kind, and that there are laws that protect minors from being medically tested upon. We will not know more until he comes of age, or an adult is found of his same species.

In meeting with Chauncey, be aware that he will continually offer to take a caseworker's coat in exchange for financial compensation. If a caseworker decides to pay him, that is their decision and DICOMY will not reimburse for the cost, nor can we ensure that you will ever receive your coat back. It is best for all parties involved to not engage in this act of commerce with the blob, as he will most certainly never become that which he desires, given his appearance. It is better to make sure his dreams and hopes for the future are practical. Consider telling him about the wonders of cooperation with the government, so when he comes of age, we may perform the necessary tests to find out what he is.
