The Ultimate InvestiGATORS Activity Book

Based on the bestselling
InvestiGators series
by John Patrick Green!

Meet the InvestiGators!

BRASH

Rank: InvestiGator

Specialty: Doing things by the book, though occasionally skipping over a page or two.

Fun Fact: Brash's love of solving mysteries began when he was little and was ranked #1 Seeker in his kindergarten's hide-and-seek championship.

General Inspector says: "Brash's focus is always on the mission, and with his analytical mind, he gets the job done."

MANGO

Rank: InvestiGator

Specialty: Thinking outside the box, even if that means sometimes not thinking inside his head.

Fun Fact: One of Mango's favorite desserts is celery ice cream with peanut butter chips.

General Inspector says: "Mango may seem like a goofball, but he's loyal and resourceful, characteristics that make him an ideal S.U.I.T. agent."

INVESTIGATORS

How to draw MANGO & BRASH

1. Draw two arches that sort of look like a bird with long, droopy wings.
2. Add a short line for the top of the snout.
3. Draw two smaller arches for the nose.

4. Make a line at the back of the head, and for Mango draw a curved snout connecting his neck to his nose.

If you're drawing Brash, give him a rectangular snout.

← Mango

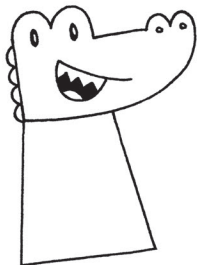

← Brash

5. Add details like eyes, nostrils, and neck ridges. Give them expressions with their mouths and eyebrows!

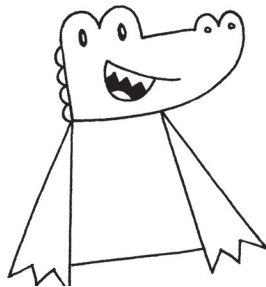

6. Mango and Brash have identical bodies. Let's draw Mango's, because Brash looks grumpy!

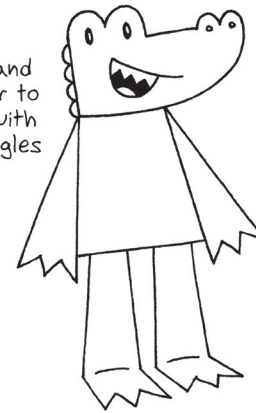

Draw a slightly crooked box shape for the torso.

7. Next, add arms, with little triangles at the ends for fingers. The Investigators usually have three, or four if we can see their thumbs.

8. Draw legs and feet, similar to the arms, with three triangles for toes.

9. Add a tail.

10. Almost done! Your Gator will need belly stripes and tail ridges.

11. Remember to put them in a V.E.S.T. when they're on the job!

12. Last, give them some gadgets and color them in. Mango is dark green and Brash is light green. What kind of spy gear do YOU think they should have?
